Description

A mahogany Campaign Table with drawers to either end.

The legs of this table are removable on turned wooden threads. Everything about this table is bold from the thick thumbnail moulding to the top and the concave apron to the reeding on the turned legs. The table has a drawer to either end, lined in mahogany and faced in veneer on deal. Both lock with the same ornate brass key.

This is a high quality table that is good for a number of purposes from dining, to working and for use at the back of a sofa or the centre of a room. Though not stamped, this table has a lot of characteristics which are associated with Gillows and cabinet makers from the Lancaster area. Early 19th Century.
