Description

A small leather hide Cologne Case.

The square case is lined in leather with dividers to separate the four glass bottles. The square bottles have silver plate screw tops lined with cork to form a seal.

The sides of the top and bottom section of the case are each formed from one piece of leather, stitched to a back corner with a separate piece stitched for the top and bottom. The top has a leather hinge and is fixed to the front on a popper button to the strap. There is no maker's or retailer's name but this set is well made with good leather work. Early 20th Century.
